'Survival City' Due To Undergo Atomic Blast

Complex Test Slated Early Wednesday; Effect On Buildings Studied

BULLETIN

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (AP)—High winds over the Nevada Desert today forced postponement of the big atomic civil defense open shot for at least 24 hours.

The announcement was given to observers this morning by Dr. Alvin C. Graves, scientific chief for the tests. It means the test will not be held before next Wednesday at the earliest.

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (AP)—Final touches were put on this tiny town today as more than 5,200 persons prepared for history's most complex atomic test.

Workmen completed furnishing the four homes on Doodson Drive, the avenue only 4,700 feet away (6 to 10 blocks in most towns) from tomorrow's early morning atomic blast tower.

One of the biggest detonations unleashed at Yucca Flat—a device with the wallop of 40,000 tons of TNT—will be used for a variety of eye-opening experiments.

Most important, this test will show what blast, radiation and fiery heat, can do to the kind of home you live in. The homes on Doodson Drive will be hit by all three; some farther from the blast by only one or two. Some should escape entirely.

The spacing is planned, for in any real atomic attack it represents part of your chance for survival. Secondly, it's designed to learn how best to protect homes and lives.

DR. ALVIN C. GRAVES, Atomic Energy Commission weaponeer, and Harold I. Goodwin, civil defense test chief, predicted:

Crime Rate Up Another 5 Pct. In '54

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. crime rate took another 5 per cent jump in 1954, with major offenses estimated at 2,267,250, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover reports.

This is one major crime committed every 13.9 seconds. Hoover noted that last year was the seventh consecutive year in which the crime rate rose, and the third straight year in which more than two million serious offenses occurred.

The statistics, published in the FBI's annual Uniform Crime Reports, showed that while the nation's population grew by 7 per cent since 1950, the crime rate was increasing by 26.7 per cent during the same period.

The 1954 figures were based on data supplied to the FBI by 5,787 law enforcement agencies covering 90 per cent of the population.

These reported indicated that for every day in 1954, an estimated 34 persons were feloniously slain and 256 other felonious assaults were committed; 49 rapes occurred; 3,674 larcenies were committed; 392 cars were stolen; and there were 185 robberies and 1,422 burglaries.

The rise in the crime rate last year was largely due to increases in robbery (6.8 per cent), burglary (8.4 per cent), larceny, 5.8 per cent. Murders dropped off 4.3 per cent in both city and rural areas and auto thefts declined 4.7 per cent. Rapes showed a 0.7 per cent increase and aggravated assaults rose 1 per cent.

City Schools Finish Polio Shots Routine

Bigger County Job Expected To End Late This Week

Children of the first two grades were receiving shots of the Salk polio vaccine in Pickaway County schools today. Inoculation for first and second graders at Circleville city schools was completed by noon.

Because of the much larger task involved in giving the shots at the county schools, it was estimated the county's share of the task will continue until late this week. Inoculations are being handled by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, with the assistance of County Health Nurse Helen Pickens and other aides at each of the schools visited.

County school children who were unable to get shots today at school, and have their parents permission to get them, may still get the inoculations if they go to the county health office in the courthouse next Saturday. They should be accompanied by their parents.

"Very smooth and without any real hitch" was the way the Monday morning program was described for the city schools.

FREE inoculations were getting underway in earnest throughout Ohio, using the first shipments of vaccine furnished by the National Polio Foundation. Columbus, Chillicothe, Lancaster and Cleveland first and second graders began getting their shots today.

Meanwhile, at Columbus Monday, it was announced that the Ohio State Medical Association has outlined a priority system for commercial supplies of the Salk vaccine, putting children under 15 at the top of the list and giving expectant mothers second priority.

This announcement by the association was given to readers of The Herald last Saturday.

Pottery Workers Get Wage Boost

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—A new wage increase granted 28,000 pottery industry employees throughout the nation will cost management up to $500,000 a year.

The agreement was reached in negotiations held in New York between the AFL Brotherhood of Operative Potters and the U. S. Pottery Assn. It was the first increase granted pottery workers since December 1952. The new pact increases the pay of minimum-rated men employees five cents to $1.42 hourly; the pay of minimum-rated women employees five cents to $1.20½. The increase hits a third of the 28,000 employees, with the other two-thirds receiving no raise.

Ike Outlines Need Of Entire World To Be Given Free Access To Truth

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower today told a gathering of publishers and editors that America's newspapers "have traditionally been a guarantee that truth will reach every part of our country and all the free peoples of the world."

He said it never was more important than it is today that the people of the entire world have free access to the truth.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Associated Press, the President asked:

"Cannot you, men of the pen, propagate knowledge of economic truth just as your professional forebears spread the truths that inspired our forefathers to achieve a national independence?"

"For, when all people, everywhere, understand that trade is a fertile soil for the growth of a

West Big Three Set Paris Talks

May 8 Conference To Lay Plans For Confab With Russian Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Big Three foreign ministers will meet in Paris May 8 "to discuss concrete plans for holding a four-power conference with the Soviet government."

The State Department in announcing this today said the United States, Britain and France "earnestly hope that a four-power conference can meet as soon as possible."

The brief announcement did not say at what level it hoped the meeting with Russia could be held. President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have said in the past that a four-power foreign ministers conference should precede any meetings of heads of state.

In preparation for the May 8 Paris meeting, American, British and French technical experts will make what the State Department called "a preliminary study" of the problems to be discussed by the foreign ministers.

THE STATE Department said that "in accordance with the usual practice" the three Western governments will discuss the possible Big Four conference with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and representatives of other Atlantic Pact governments.

"The governments of France, the United Kingdom and the United States," the announcement said, "have consistently given proof of their desire to seek by negotiation the just and peaceful settlement of questions which might disturb the maintenance of enduring peace."

"Moved by the same desire, the three foreign ministers will meet in Paris May 8 in order to discuss concrete plans for holding a four-power conference with the Soviet government."

"In accordance with usual practice they will also discuss this question with the chancellor of the German Federal Republic and ministers of other NATO governments."

"Experts designated by the three governments will meet in London April 27 to make a preliminary study of these problems in preparation for the ministers' discussions. The three governments earnestly hope that a four-power conference can meet as soon as possible."

Deputy 'Cottie' Radcliff Resigns; Takes New Job At Increased Salary

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Carl K. (Cottie) Radcliff, veteran law enforcement officer since 1933, has resigned, effective Thursday.

Radcliff, a brother of Sheriff Charles Radcliff, has accepted a position as foreman with a local construction firm. The 47-year-old deputy gave as his reason for resigning the fact that his new salary will be an increase of two-thirds over his present pay.

The tall, rugged Carl Radcliff first went to work as a Circleville policeman. Just prior to World War II, he took a leave of absence and worked as a guard at a Columbus airplane factory.

During the war, "Cottie" served with the Navy Seabees as a deep sea diver. Several years later, he went back into service during the Korean conflict.

AFTER HIS three-year tour of duty in World War II, he went back to the city police force. However, six months later he joined the sheriff's department in 1946.

"Cottie" is regarded by many law enforcement officials as one of the best, not only in Pickaway County but over all this section of the state.

He is known for never carrying a blackjack. He explains: "I tried to use one once and it broke but didn't hurt the man any."

It has also been a long time since anyone has seen him carrying handcuffs. Just his gun, slung low.

"Cottie's" past is replete with numerous stories of his prowess as an officer—none of which he will tell voluntarily. One concerns one of the easiest captures probably ever recorded.

In the mid-1940's, a circus fire in New England killed many persons. After numerous fires were started in Pickaway County about the same time, "Cottie's" investigation led to a youth who had fled the state.

GOING AFTER his suspect, "Cottie" finally located him in a house. The youth met him at the door and said:

"You're from Ohio, aren't you? How about if I ride back there with you?"

"Cottie" starts his new job on Thursday.

Escapes Nabbed In Stolen Auto

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—Authorities plan to start extradition proceedings today against two escapees from a Virginia prison farm, captured by state highway patrolmen near Mount Vernon.

The pair, Leonard Justus, 22, serving time for armed robbery, and Clarence Draiger, 22, sentenced for shooting with intent to kill, escaped April 18 from the Woodbridge State Prison Farm near Washington, D. C.

Police added they were riding in a stolen car with stolen plates when stopped yesterday on U.S. 36, south of Mount Vernon.

President Sees Way To Show U.S. Peace Aims

Eisenhower To Urge Congress Appropriate Funds For Vessel

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower today unveiled plans to send a new atomic powered merchant ship around the globe in a dramatic demonstration of America's determination to win "a just and lasting peace."

The new vessel, the President said, will travel thousands of miles without refueling and "will demonstrate to people everywhere this peace-time use of atomic energy, harnessed for the improvement of human living."

Eisenhower disclosed his intention to ask Congress for funds to build the new ship in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual luncheon meeting of the Associated Press at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. About 1,300 of the nation's publishers and editors were on hand for the start of Newspaper Week.

The President coupled his surprise announcement of plans for the atomic-powered ship with a new plea for congressional enactment of the administration program to cut tariffs 15 per cent over the next three years.

EISENHOWER made no direct mention of Red China's weekend offer to negotiate with the United States to relax tension in the Formosa area. But in an obvious reference to Communist China and Russia, the President said "certain dictatorship have engaged in a deliberately conceived drive which periodically creates alarms and fears of war."

Eisenhower also spoke of the "unprecedented crises of these days—packed with danger," and linked the idea of freer world

Ohio Farm Income Showing Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm income in Ohio during the first two months of the year was down slightly from income during the corresponding period a year ago.

The Agriculture Department, in a report released yesterday, listed Ohio farm income for January and February at $167,531,000. A year ago it was $170,949,000 for the same two months.

Nationally, farm income was down $250,733,000 for the period, with only eight states registering increases from last year.

Asian Parley OKs Vital Resolutions

Red China Boss Gains Applause, But Sounds Belated Sour Note

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Delegates to the Asian-African conference headed home today. The 29-nation parley came to a harmonious close yesterday with a series of unanimous resolutions designed to foster peace among the world's diverse peoples.

Red China's Chou En-lai sounded one jarring note at the wind-up. After stealing the show Saturday with his call for direct talks with the United States on the thorny Formosa issue, the Communist premier declared that Peiping would not yield its "sovereign right in the liberation" of Chiang Kai-shek's island bastion.

The seven-day conference was marked by frequent clashes between pro and anti-Communist elements. But it reached last-minute agreement on the major issue that nearly caused a stalemate, the touchy colonial question.

After hours of deliberation a subcommittee finally came up with an acceptable resolution condemning colonialism "in all its manifestations." It carefully avoided specifying either Western or Communist colonialism.

Both sides in the cold war seemed to have profited during the parley.

THERE WAS LITTLE or none of the bitter condemnation the West had expected from the formerly subject peoples. Anti-Com-

1. Universal membership in the United Nations to promote world peace, an oblique reference to Red China's demands for a seat in the world organization.

2. Economic cooperation among the Asian-African nations "on the basis of mutual interest and respect for national sovereignty."

3. Cultural understanding among nations through cooperation. The resolutions condemned colonialism and racialism.

4. Full support for the principle of self-determination "of peoples and nations as set forth in the charter of the United Nations."

5. SUPPORT for the "courageous stand taken by the victims of racial discrimination, especially by the peoples of African, Indian and Pakistani origin in South Africa."

6. Support for the rights of the North Africans to self-determination, a reference to the Nationalist demands in the French territories there. France was urged to bring about a quick settlement.

7. Support for the "rights of the Arab people of Palestine" and a call for a peaceful settlement there. Though the resolution did not mention Israel by name, its anti-Israeli intent was clear.

The eastward movement of the storm center, however, was expected to clear the skies in the Midwest but only to make way for eastward moving weather now dampening the northern Rocky Mountains and Pacific Northwest.

A tornado ripped through three small communities in a northern Alabama farming section yesterday, killing an elderly couple and two children and causing property damage estimated at $750,000.

The twister injured 25 persons, including the mother of the two child victims, and three other of her children; destroyed 40 houses and two churches. It cut a swath close to a half mile wide through Piney Grove, Cedar Plains and Andrews' Chapel 75 miles north of Birmingham.

Thunderstorms pelted the Carolinas with hailstones up to two inches in diameter at Charlotte, baseball size at Laurens and York, S. C., and four inches in diameter at Rock Hills, S. C.

Today's shower area ran eastward from the Mississippi Valley to New England and as far south as northern Tennessee.

Conventional Bomb Appropriation Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force says it has slashed $950 million off its conventional bomb program for the current year in view of its growing stockpile of nuclear weapons.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Bogart, Air Force budget director, gave the figure in testimony before the House Appropriations subcommittee released today. The general said the Air Force now plans to spend $1,143,000,000 for conventional bombs during the year ending June 30. Last year it asked Congress for $2,093,000,000.

Pike Chalks Death

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—The first fatality on the Ohio Turnpike was recorded today when William Moore, 19, of New Springfield, died of injuries received when his car slammed into a heavy steel guard rail.

munist spokesmen captured the initiative at the outset of the conference with telling blasts against Red imperialism. Western observers were particularly impressed with the anti-Communist stand of Ceylon's Premier Sir John Kotelawala, one of the five conference hosts.

On the Communist side, Chou devoted himself mainly to winning friends. He attracted considerable favorable attention by refusing to pursue the arguments with his anti-Communist critics. His Chinese premier's gesture on the Formosa issue was applauded generally.

The final conference communiqué outlined these principal stands, in addition to that on colonialism, adopted during the meeting:

1. Universal membership in the United Nations to promote world peace, an oblique reference to Red China's demands for a seat in the world organization.

2. Economic cooperation among the Asian-African nations "on the basis of mutual interest and respect for national sovereignty."

3. Cultural understanding among nations through cooperation. The resolutions condemned colonialism and racialism.

GI Chow Quality Hit; This Is News?

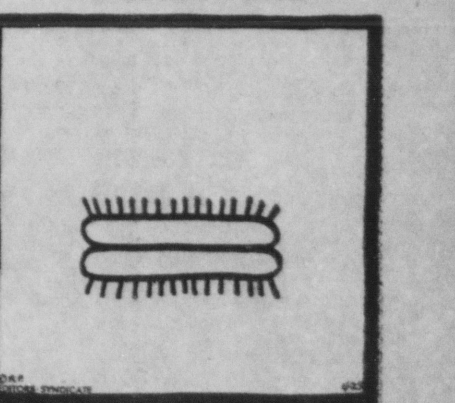

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hoover Commission says the meals served at U. S. military bases wouldn't meet the standards of a good restaurant.

In a report on government buying and handling of food and clothing, the commission said last night that the armed forces buy good quality food but fail to meet commercial standards in the way they prepare and serve it.

Can you imagine a centipede wedding with the happy couple driving off with 400 shoes tied behind the car? I can't. Probably because centipedes don't wear shoes (not in my house they don't) because they'd be impractical. Of course if a centipede wore sneakers they might help him when he's trying to outrun an enemy (me, for instance). But then again when a centipede got up in the morning he wouldn't have time to shine 30 pair of oxfords and when he came home at night his wife would have to spend the entire evening bringing him his slippers. Ohioan Honored As Young Cleric

CHICAGO (AP)—The Rev. Robert John Versteeg, 24, educated in Lima and at Ohio Wesleyan Uni- versity, addressed the Chicago Sunday Evening Club yesterday after being named seminarian preacher of the year.

"Spiritually, you either live all over or die all over," Rev. Mr. Versteeg said in delivering his award-winning sermon, "but Jesus had the right of it."

The young minister's father, the Rev. John Versteeg, is pastor of First Methodist Church in Athens, Ohio. Robert is a student pastor at Salem Methodist Church, Chi- cago, while doing postgraduate work at Northwestern University.

He is known for never carrying a blackjack. He explains: "I tried to use one once and it broke but didn't hurt the man any."

It has also been a long time since anyone has seen him carry- ing handcuffs. Just his gun, slung low.

West Big Three Set Paris Talks

May 8 Conference To Lay Plans
For Confab With Russian Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Big Three foreign ministers will meet in Paris May 8 "to discuss concrete plans for holding a four- power conference with the Soviet government."

The State Department in an- nouncing this today said the United States, Britain and France "earnestly hope that a four-power conference can meet as soon as possible."

The brief announcement did not say at what level it hoped the meeting with Russia could be held. President Eisenhower and Sec- retary of State Dulles have said in the past that a four-power foreign ministers conference should pre- ceed any meetings of heads of state.

In preparation for the May 8 Paris meeting, American, British and French technical experts will make what the State Department called "a preliminary study" of the problems to be discussed by the foreign ministers.

THE STATE Department said that "in accordance with the us- ual practice" the three Western governments will discuss the possible Big Four conference with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and representatives of other Atlantic Pact governments.

"The governments of France, the United Kingdom and the United States," the announcement said, "have consistently given proof of their desire to seek by negotiation the just and peaceful settlement of questions which might disturb the maintenance of enduring peace."

"Moved by the same desire, the three foreign ministers will meet in Paris May 8 in order to discuss concrete plans for hold- ing a four-power conference with the Soviet government."

"In accordance with usual practice they will also discuss this question with the chancellor of the German Federal Republic and ministers of other NATO govern- ments."

"Experts designated by the three governments will meet in London April 27 to make a pre- liminary study of these problems in preparation for the ministers' discussions. The three govern- ments earnestly hope that a four- power conference can meet as soon as possible."

Deputy 'Cottie' Radcliff Resigns; Takes New Job At Increased Salary

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Carl K. (Cottie) Radcliff, veteran law enforcement officer since 1933, has resigned, effective Thursday.

Radcliff, a brother of Sheriff Charles Radcliff, has accepted a position as foreman with a local construction firm. The 47-year old deputy gave as his reason for resigning the fact that his new salary will be an increase of two-thirds over his present pay.

The tall, rugged Carl Radcliff first went to work as a Circleville policeman. Just prior to World War II, he took a leave of absence and worked as a guard at a Colum- bus airplane factory.

During the war, "Cottie" served with the Navy Seabees as a deep sea diver. Several years later, he went back into service during the Korean conflict.

AFTER HIS three-year tour of duty in World War II, he went back to the city police force. How- ever, six months later he joined the sheriff's department in 1946.

"Cottie" is regarded by many law enforcement officials as one of the best, not only in Pickaway County but over all this section of the state.

He is known for never carrying a blackjack. He explains: "I tried to use one once and it broke but didn't hurt the man any."

It has also been a long time since anyone has seen him carry- ing handcuffs. Just his gun, slung low.

"Cottie's" past is replete with numerous stories of his prowess as an officer—none of which he will tell voluntarily. One concerns one of the easiest captures probably ever recorded.

In the mid-1940's, a circus fire in New England killed many per- sons. After numerous fires were started in Pickaway County about the same time, "Cottie's" investi- gation led to a youth who had fled the state.

GOING AFTER his suspect, "Cottie" finally located him in a house. The youth met him at the door and said:

"You're from Ohio, aren't you? How about if I ride back there with you?"

"Cottie" starts his new job on Thursday.

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—Authori- ties plan to start extradition pro- ceedings today against two escap- ees from a Virginia prison farm, captured by state highway patrol- men near Mount Vernon.

The pair, Leonard Justus, 22, serving time for armed robbery, and Clarence Draiger, 22, sen- tenced for shooting with intent to kill, escaped April 18 from the Woodbridge State Prison Farm near Washington, D. C.

Police added they were riding in a stolen car with stolen plates when stopped yesterday on U.S. 36, south of Mount Vernon.

Eisenhower To Urge
Congress Appropriate
Funds For Vessel

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eis- enhower today unveiled plans to send a new atomic powered mer- chant ship around the globe in a dramatic demonstration of Amer- ica's determination to win "a just and lasting peace."

The new vessel, the President said, will travel thousands of miles without refueling and "will demonstrate to people everywhere this peace-time use of atomic energy, harnessed for the improvement of human liv- ing."

Eisenhower disclosed his inten- tion to ask Congress for funds to build the new ship in a speech prepared for delivery at the an- nual luncheon meeting of the Asso- ciated Press at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. About 1,300 of the na- tion's publishers and editors were on hand for the start of News- paper Week.

The President coupled his sur- prise announcement of plans for the atomic-powered ship with a new plea for congressional enact- ment of the administration pro- gram to cut tariffs 15 per cent over the next three years.

EISENHOWER made no direct mention of Red China's weekend offer to negotiate with the United States to relax tension in the For- mosa area. But in an obvious re- ference to Communist China and Russia, the President said "cer- tain dictatorships have engaged in a deliberately conceived drive which periodically creates alarms and fears of war."

Eisenhower also spoke of the "unprecedented crises of these days—packed with danger," and linked the idea of freer world (Continued on Page Two)

Ohio Farm Income Showing Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm in- come in Ohio during the first two months of the year was down slightly from income during the corresponding period a year ago.

The Agriculture Department, in a report released yesterday, listed Ohio farm income for January and February at $167,531,000. A year ago it was $170,949,000 for the same two months.

Nationally, farm income was down $250,733,000 for the period, with only eight states registering increases from last year.

Asian Parley OKs Vital Resolutions

Red China Boss Gains Applause,
But Sounds Belated Sour Note

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Dele- gates to the Asian-African confer- ence headed home today. The 29- nation parley came to a harmo- nious close yesterday with a ser- ies of unanimous resolutions de- signed to foster peace among the world's diverse peoples.

Red China's Chou En-lai sound- ed one jarring note at the wind- up. After stealing the show Sat- urday with his call for direct talks with the United States on the thorny Formosa issue, the Communist premier declared that "Peiping would not yield its 'sovereign right in the libera- tion' of Chiang Kai-shek's is- land bastion."

The seven-day conference was marked by frequent clashes be- tween pro and anti-Communist elements. But it reached last-minute agreement on the major issue that nearly caused a stalemate, the touchy colonial question.

After hours of deliberation a subcommittee finally came up with an acceptable resolution con- demning colonialism "in all its manifestations." It carefully avoided specifying either Western or Communist colonialism.

Both sides in the cold war seemed to have profited during the parley.

THERE WAS LITTLE or none of the bitter condemnation the West had expected from the for- merly subject peoples. Anti-Communist spokesmen captured the initiative at the outset of the conference with telling blasts against Red imperialism. Western observ- ers were particularly impressed with the anti-Communist stand of Ceylon's Premier Sir John Kotel- awala, one of the five conference hosts.

On the Communist side, Chou devoted himself mainly to win- ning friends. He attracted consid- erable favorable attention by re- fusing to pursue the arguments with his anti-Communist critics. His Chinese premier's gesture on the Formosa issue was applauded generally.

The final conference commu- nique outlined these principal stands, in addition to that on co- lonialism, adopted during the meeting:

1. Universal membership in the United Nations to promote world peace, an oblique reference to Red China's demands for a seat in the world organization.

2. Economic cooperation among the Asian-African nations "on the basis of mutual interest and re- spect for national sovereignty."

3. Cultural understanding among nations through cooperation. The resolutions condemned colonialism and racialism.

4. Full support for the principle of self-determination "of peoples and nations, as set forth in the charter of the United Nations."

5. SUPPORT for the "courage- ous stand taken by the victims of racial discrimination, especially by the peoples of African, Indian and Pakistani origin in South Af- rica."

6. Support for the rights of the North Africans to self-determina- tion, a reference to the Nationalist demands in the French territories there. France was urged to bring about a quick settlement.

7. Support for the "rights of the Arab people of Palestine" and a call for a peaceful settlement there. Though the resolution did not mention Israel by name, its anti-Israeli intent was clear.

Carolina Hail Said Larger Than Baseballs

CHICAGO (AP)—Showers and thunderstorms continued today in eastern and southern United States, sections where some lo- calities had a tornado, a 70 mph windstorm and hailstones bigger than baseballs yesterday.

The eastward movement of the storm center, however, was ex- pected to clear the skies in the Midwest but only to make way for eastward moving weather now dampening the northern Rocky Mountains and Pacific Northwest.

A tornado ripped through three small communities in a northern Alabama farming section yester- day, killing an elderly couple and two children and causing property damage estimated at $750,000.

The twister injured 25 persons, including the mother of the two child victims, and three other of her children; destroyed 40 houses and two churches. It cut a swath close to a half mile wide through Piney Grove, Cedar Plains and Andrew's Chapel 75 miles north of Birmingham.

Thunderstorms pelted the Caro- lina's with hailstones up to two inches in diameter at Charlotte, baseball size at Laurens and York, S. C., and four inches in diameter at Rock Hills, S. C.

Today's shower area ran east- ward from the Mississippi Valley to New England and as far south as northern Tennessee.

Conventional Bomb Appropriation Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force says it has slashed $950 mil- lion off its conventional bomb pro- gram for the current year in view of its growing stockpile of nuclear weapons.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Bogart, Air Force budget director, gave the figure in testimony before the House Appropriations subcommi- tee released today. The general said the Air Force now plans to spend $1,143,000,000 for conven- tional bombs during the year end- ing June 30. Last year it asked Congress for $2,093,000,000.

GI Chow Quality Hit; This Is News?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hoov- er Commission says the meals served at U. S. military bases wouldn't meet the standards of a good restaurant.

In a report on government buying and handling of food and clothing, the commission said last night that the armed forces buy good quality food but fail to meet commercial standards in the way they prepare and serve it.

"NEWLYWED CENTIPEDE CARRYING BRIDE ACROSS THRESHOLD"

Can you imagine a centipede wed- ding with the happy couple driving off with 400 shoes tied behind the car? I can't. Probably because centipedes don't wear shoes (not in my house they don't) because they'd be impractical. Of course if a centipede wore sneakers they might help him when he's trying to outrun an enemy (me, for in- stance). But then again when a centipede got up in the morning he wouldn't have time to shine 50 pair of oxfords and when he came home at night his wife would have to spend the entire evening bring- ing him his slippers. trade to the battle against "Godless Communism."

"Either we foster flourishing trade between the free nations or we weaken the Free World and our own economy," Eisenhower said.

The administration's bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act three years has passed the House but still faces rough going in the Senate.

Rejection of the program, Eisenhower said, "would constitute a serious setback to our hopes for global peace." He said that on the other hand:

"Two-way trade, I believe, is a broad avenue by which all men and nations of good will can travel toward a golden era of peace and plenty."

EISENHOWER said his administration "shall not be bound by a slavish adherence to precedent or halted by the lack of it" in searching for enduring peace. It was against the background of that concept that he made this announcement:

"We have added to the United States program for peaceful uses of atomic energy an atomic powered merchant ship. The Atomic Energy Commission and the maritime administration are now developing specifications. I shall shortly submit to the Congress a request for the necessary funds together with a description of the vessel.

"The new ship, powered with an atomic reactor, will not require refueling for scores of thousands of miles of operation. Visiting the ports of the world, it will demonstrate to people everywhere this peace-time use of atomic energy, harnessed for the improvement of human living.

"In part, the ship will be an atomic exhibit; carrying to all people practical knowledge of the usefulness of this new science in medicine, agriculture and power production.

"In every possible way, in word and deed, we shall strive to bring to all men the truth of our assertion that we seek only a just and lasting peace.

"There is no precedent for the nature of the struggle of our time."

jected to severe damage and a good deal of X-ray radiation. Heat could start fires in flammable materials, such as drapes, wooden doors, window shades.

Radio towers, 120 and 150 feet tall, just behind the homes, may sway wildly and snap off.

Homes in the second row at two miles might have moderate blast damage. Radiation will have fallen off sharply and the heat wave may have scant effect.

Homes farther back should remain relatively intact. Two houses are placed off by themselves, east of the town, mainly to measure how much radiation might strike them from fallout, rather than direct radiation from the exploding device.

At about 7:20 a. m. EST tomorrow, CBS and NBC TV networks will carry the show on a pooled basis, and ABC, CBS and NBC will carry pooled radio coverage.

It will be the third live network telecast of an A-blast. The first was over an improvised relay in 1952 and the second a more comprehensive coverage in 1953.

A new angle this time will be the use of the split screen technique. Viewers will see simultaneously the blast itself and a close-up of the reactions of soldiers and civil defense workers in a trench only a mile and a half away.

An important dinner will be held in the First Evangelical United Brethren Church on May 5 at 7 p. m. All parents and committee-men are invited to attend, with a trophy being presented to the troop or pack having the highest percentage of adults present.

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—Harry L. Washburn, accused of killing his rich former mother-in-law, was supposed to go on trial for murder today. But a district attorney's ulcer and a girl wrestler's reported pregnancy may postpone the case.

Washburn, 38, a Houston contractor, is charged with rigging a car bomb that killed Mrs. Helen Weaver, 51, here last Jan. 19.

Officers said the dynamite bomb was intended for her husband, Harry E. Weaver, 60, an architect and nonsalaried consultant for Navy Public Works.

Dist. Atty. Aubrey Stokes, who leads the prosecution, collapsed and was hospitalized last night for treatment of a stomach ulcer. A doctor said Stokes "would be laid up for awhile."

Saturday, Stokes asked postponement on grounds a key state witness, Mrs. Adela Heninger, couldn't travel here from East Peoria, Ill. Mrs. Heninger, 24, wrestles professionally under the billing "Nature Girl." Stokes said he was told she is six months pregnant.

The defense said it would fight any delay on grounds it would violate Washburn's right to a speedy trial.

Blue Star Mothers Thank Aides, Public

In addition to thanks for public support, special appreciations were also extended to the school children who assisted in the tag sales.

Traffic Lights In Circleville Painted Green

All Circleville traffic lights are being repainted green, according to city service director Dewey Speakman.

"Traffic lights actually come to us painted green," Speakman pointed out. "The city has been repainting them yellow."

Speakman said that safety director Miller Fissell ordered the original color restored.

Fissell's reasoning is that the lights are reflected better against a dark background, such as green, rather than a light one, such as yellow.

The city has been plagued by numerous accidents in which motorists claimed the sun's reflection off the light made it impossible for them to tell when it was red or green.

Sunday at the Scioto Lodge Elks Club, 644 S. Scioto St.

Seven men were apprehended and cited to appear in city court here on Thursday. Definite charges had not yet been filed, according to city police.

trade to the battle against "God-less Communism."

"Either we foster flourishing trade between the free nations or we weaken the Free World and our own economy," Eisenhower said.

The administration's bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act three years has passed the House but still faces rough going in the Senate.

Rejection of the program, Eisenhower said, "would constitute a serious setback to our hopes for global peace." He said that on-the other hand:

"Two-way trade, I believe, is a broad avenue by which all men and nations of good will can travel toward a golden era of peace and plenty."

EISENHOWER said his administration "shall not be bound by a slavish adherence to precedent or halted by the lack of it" in searching for enduring peace. It was against the background of that concept that he made this announcement:

"We have added to the United States program for peaceful uses of atomic energy an atomic powered merchant ship. The Atomic Energy Commission and the maritime administration are now developing specifications. I shall shortly submit to the Congress a request for the necessary funds together with a description of the vessel.

"The new ship, powered with an atomic reactor, will not require refueling for scores of thousands of miles of operation. Visiting the ports of the world, it will demonstrate to people everywhere this peace-time use of atomic energy, harnessed for the improvement of human living.

"In part, the ship will be an atomic exhibit; carrying to all people practical knowledge of the usefulness of this new science in medicine, agriculture and power production.

"In every possible way, in word and deed, we shall strive to bring to all men the truth of our assertion that we seek only a just and lasting peace.

"There is no precedent for the nature of the struggle of our time."

jected to severe damage and a good deal of X-ray radiation. Heat could start fires in flammable materials, such as drapes, wooden doors, window sashes.

Radio towers, 120 and 150 feet tall, just behind the homes, may sway wildly and snap off.

Homes in the second row at two miles might have moderate blast damage. Radiation will have fallen off sharply and the heat wave may have scant effect.

Homes farther back should remain relatively intact. Two houses are placed off by themselves, east of the town, mainly to measure how much radiation might strike them from fallout, rather than direct radiation from the exploding device.

At about 7:20 a. m. EST tomorrow, CBS and NBC TV networks will carry the show on a pooled basis, and ABC, CBS and NBC will carry pooled radio coverage.

It will be the third live network telecast of an A-blast. The first was over an improvised relay in 1952 and the second a more comprehensive coverage in 1953.

A new angle this time will be the use of the split screen technique. Viewers will see simultaneously the blast itself and a close-up of the reactions of soldiers and civil defense workers in a trench only a mile and a half away.

An important dinner will be held in the First Evangelical United Brethren Church on May 5 at 7 p. m. All parents and committee-men are invited to attend, with a trophy being presented to the troop or pack having the highest percentage of adults present.

Hal Boyle Says:

He Can Whip Own Heroes

NEW YORK (AP) — "People count themselves to death in this life," said Louis L'Amour, declining to give his age.

With L'Amour, one of America's most prolific adventure writers, keeping his age to himself isn't a matter of vanity. It's a philosophy.

"It isn't the number of years you've lived that's important," he said. "It's a mistake to measure living in terms of years. It's how you've spent the years that puts real meaning into existence."

Judged by most standards, L'Amour has had enough experiences to last the ordinary man through several reincarnations.

The average adventure writer is a swivel chair dreamer who would think twice before icking a quarrel with his dentist. L'Amour not only looks like the adventure heroes he writes about, he probably could whip one of his own heroes in a fight with either fist or gun.

The big 6-foot-1 inch author weighs 200 and is a judo expert as well as an authority on a desert or jungle survival. He has been a sailor, a miner, a hobo, a professional boxer (he won 54 bouts, lost 5) and an anti-tank combat officer in World War II.

At 15 he left his home in

Jamestown, N. D., and joined a circus as the first step in a search for adventure that has carried him to almost every place in the world.

"Even then I knew I wanted to write," he recalled. "But I figured I could learn more out of school than in it. I felt I had to see life before I could write about it."

L'Amour educated himself by constant reading during his years of wandering in distant places. Slowly and painfully he also taught himself to write.

"I had 200 stories rejected before I sold my first one for $10," he recalled.

His career has now reached the jackpot stage. He has published more than 400 short stories, turned out half a dozen adventure novels, including "Hondo," made into a movie starring John Wayne, to whom he bears a strong physical resemblance.

L'Amour, a bachelor, lives now in a midtown hotel and is about ready for man's most enduring adventure—matrimony—if he can find the right girl.

He is a specialist on Western lore, but his hobby is the study of survival.

"If you know plants, you can go alone into a desert or jungle and find enough food and water to keep alive indefinitely," he said. "A man can survive anywhere in the world, at sea or on land—except in the antarctic, if he will only use his head."

"The main enemy to anybody set down unexpectedly in a wild, uninhabited spot is his own sense of panic. That is why lost children often survive in places where adults die. They don't give way to fear."

L'Amour, whose own experiences have proved a fruitful gold mine, has no patience with people who think of adventure as something limited to the glamorous past.

"It isn't," he said soberly. "There is more adventure alive in the world today than there ever was, plenty of unexplored places. Adventure is there waiting for any man with the courage to go and find it. But you'll never discover it by looking at the calendar—and counting yourself to death."

Aerial Greeting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An airplane flew over a birthday party for Sam and Phil Rosenberg, 42-year-old twins, yesterday. Behind it streamed the words "Happy birthday, Phil and Sam." The stunt was arranged by two friends.

Boy, 12, Saves Buddy In Fire

SPARTANBURG, S. C., (AP)—Twelve-year-old Donald Nelson was credited yesterday with saving the life of his playmate Tommy Wright, 8. Tommy's clothes caught fire while the boys were "camping" in his back yard. Donald rolled him on the ground, smothering the flames. A doctor said Tommy was expected to recover completely.

Isolated Islanders Brought Relief

ST. JOHN'S, N.F.L.D. (AP)—The whaling boat Finback carried food and fuel through heaving ice yesterday to Bell Island, where 12,000 people have been bottled up for several weeks by an arctic ice jam. Little fresh meat is left in stores on the island, three miles offshore, and grocers are selling bread only to regular customers.

Bars Numerous

PARIS (AP)—France has a bar for every 236 inhabitants, including babies. The National Institute of Statistics came up with these figures, putting the total of bars in the nation at 182,000.

Summons By TV Bring Gowns

MILAN, Italy (AP)—It was 9:15 p. m. when the television announcer put out the news: All persons showing up at the station wearing nightgowns and carrying lighted candles would get a prize.

Within 20 minutes, 27 nightgown-garbed candle bearers crowded into the TV studio. First prize, a radio set, went to the sexton of a nearby church. He wore an embroidered nightshirt and held aloft a candelabrum with 40 candles.

Retired Teacher Brutally Slain

NEWPORT, R. I., (AP)—Police were seeking clues today in the rape-slaying of Miss Susan B. Franklin, 86, a retired schoolteacher and member of an old Newport family.

Her body was found yesterday on a bed in her colonial home, where she lived alone, in the historic Point section of fashionable Newport.

Her hands were tied behind her back and her ankles were bound with heavy cord.

Medical Examiner Arthur E. O'Dea said she was beaten on the face and raped. Death was due to asphyxiation.

Police Capt. John P. Connolly said, "There is no suspect and there is little to go on."

The game of lacrosse was invented by the American Indians.

Hal Boyle Says:He Can Whip Own Heroes

NEW YORK (AP) — "People count themselves to death in this life," said Louis L'Amour, declining to give his age.

With L'Amour, one of America's most prolific adventure writers, keeping his age to himself isn't a matter of vanity. It's a philosophy.

"It isn't the number of years you've lived that's important," he said. "It's a mistake to measure living in terms of years. It's how you've spent the years that puts real meaning into existence."

Judged by most standards, L'Amour has had enough experiences to last the ordinary man through several reincarnations.

The average adventure writer is a swivel chair dreamer who would think twice before picking a quarrel with his dentist. L'Amour not only looks like the adventure heroes he writes about, he probably could whip one of his own heroes in a fight with either fist or gun.

The big 6-foot-1 inch author weighs 200 and is a judo expert as well as an authority on a desert or jungle survival. He has been a sailor, a miner, a hobo, a professional boxer (he won 54 bouts, lost 5) and an antitank combat officer in World War II.

At 15 he left his home in

Jamestown, N. D., and joined a circus as the first step in a search for adventure that has carried him to almost every place in the world.

"Even then I knew I wanted to write," he recalled. "But I figured I could learn more out of school than in it. I felt I had to see life before I could write about it."

L'Amour educated himself by constant reading during his years of wandering in distant places. Slowly and painfully he also taught himself to write.

"I had 200 stories rejected before I sold my first one for $10," he recalled.

His career has now reached the jackpot stage. He has published more than 400 short stories, turned out half a dozen adventure novels, including "Hondo," made into a movie starring John Wayne, to whom he bears a strong physical resemblance. L'Amour, a bachelor, lives

NEW CAPITOL PROPOSED

CONSTRUCTION of a new Capitol building in Washington to replace the present structure, which was outgrown decades ago, has been proposed by Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. Senator Bridges envisions a building many times the size of the present capitol, which would be converted into a national shrine. He proposes that a site nearby be acquired.

Anticipating opposition to his plan on the ground that the cost would be prohibitive, the Senator points to the $65 million United Nations building in New York City, financed by the United States government, interest free, on a 30-year basis.

The present capitol building, much of which dates from the early 1800s, has been added to and remodeled several times, but Washington officialdom has grown much more rapidly than has the place of business. The result is, most of the bureaus and offices are scattered all over the city, adding to operational inefficiency.

It is too early to predict the reaction to the Senator's proposal. To date there has been little comment, possibly indicating the subject is already dead. Should the proposal be considered and passed, it would undoubtedly be decades before fruition of the dream could be realized.

Senator Bridges is correct in his premise that bringing government offices back under one roof would promote economy, but whether his proposition is practical from the standpoint of initial cost, or whether the idea is feasible from a military of historical viewpoint, remains to be determined.

TO CUT RED TAPE

LATEST HOOVER Commission report, on federal legal services and procedures, seeks to blaze a fresh trail through Washington's tangled jungle of administrative law. Predominant among the 52 recommendations made to Congress are those which would take judicial functions away from regulatory agencies and place them in a new omnibus federal court.

The agencies now make their own regulations, proceed to investigate compliance, prosecute violations and finally sit in judgment on the charges.

The Hoover Commission contends that justice might be more equitably and effectively served in an all-inclusive administrative court. Such a court would have three sections, one devoted to tax matters now handled by a separate tax court, another to labor disputes now under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board and the third to trade regulation cases.

This latter section would replace the judicial efforts of such agencies as the Federal Trade Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission and Federal Power Commission.

Standardization of a common court should cut costs. The proposal is an intriguing one. If Congress does not agree that this is one of the answers to the question of what to do about bureaucratic red tape, perhaps it can develop a substitute.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

A person is called a reactionary who moves within the traditions of American life and history. The definition is my own but the facts behind it are demonstrable. I take the following from a statement made by Louis Hollander, president of the New York State C.I.O., who said:

"I believe we can force the reactionaries of both old parties to form their own third party. Then labor can sit down and rebuild one of the two remaining parties, supporting the liberals who stay on."

Hollander happened to say this because someone else, at the particular meeting he was addressing, had suggested that labor form its own third party which would seem to be the logical and honest way of going about it if anyone desired a third party.

Under the tutelage of the A. D. A., however, some labor leaders, Socialists, ancient New Dealers and forensic Republicans have concluded that the best way to walk off with another man's possessions is to go into his home and take over. Why bother to form a third party when it is possible by infiltration to steal both the Republican and Democratic Parties?

The question then arises as to whether it can be done. In New York State, the A.D.A. has more or less been pushed out of the Democratic Party. Neither Governor Averell Harriman nor Carmine DeSapio, who runs Democratic politics, will have anything to do with this amalgam of people on the Left.

On the other hand, the Republican Party in this great state is not so resistant to the A.D.A. because out of power is very unpleasant after so long a period in office and maybe with a little assistance the Republicans can get somewhere.

Besides, the only Republican elected last year, the Attorney-General, Jacob Javits, is on the untraditional side and nobody will call him a reactionary, no matter what else he might call him. In fact, if Hollander's friends manage to infiltrate and capture the Republican Party in New York, it would not be necessary for Javits to leave it, no matter what unseemly company he would be forced to keep.

Actually none of this is likely to happen on a national scale in the near future but it does indicate a manner of mind. The A. D. A. has sought to be a balance of power among the Democrats and has only failed because of a Southern repugnance for Socialists which may be overcome, in due course, as the industrialization of the South proceeds.

Among the Republicans, these days, the only fixed principle is that President Eisenhower is a great popular man who cannot be defeated in 1956. Apart from that, the Party in power, as it were, views life and events pragmatically, hoping that more credits will be gained than minuses and that in due course everything will work out well enough, although in these muddled times no one can look forward to perfection. Republicans generally accept it as inviolable truth that Eisenhower cannot be defeated in 1956 no matter who runs against him and that no other Republican can be elected.

The theft of a political party by infiltration, two of them, as Hollander advocates, is only possible because of the debasement of public morals. In Hollander's circles, it would be called "khutzpa," which may be defined as aggressive, devil-may-care impudence and sometimes even imprudence. And it is even possible that to one who can be guilty of "khutzpa" go the spoils because other men, less forward, shun the battle and give the field.

DIET AND HEALTH

Knowledge of First Aid Often Prevents Tragedy

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT won't be long before you'll be out on the streets and highways again for those Summer vacations or Sunday afternoon drives. Sometime before the year is over, you'll probably come upon a serious automobile accident. Unfortunately, some of you might be involved in one.

Knowing First Aid

Now whether you're involved in a wreck or merely a witness, you should know what to do to aid the injured. Maybe you can save a life.

Don't move him unless it is necessary to get him out of danger. Let him lie flat on his back, if possible. Keep him warm. Even a few newspapers will serve as a cover if nothing better is handy. If he begins to vomit, turn his head sideways so nothing will be drawn into his windpipe.

Signs of Shock

Even if he isn't seriously injured, an auto accident victim often suffers shock. You'll easily recognize shock symptoms. His skin will feel cold and clammy, he'll be listless, his senses will respond slowly, and he'll gasp for breath. His pulse will be weak and rapid. He might be unconscious, too.

When a person suffers shock, it means his brain and heart are not getting enough blood. To encourage the flow of blood to his head, place him so his head is slightly lower than the rest of his body. Don't try to get the patient to sit up. And never give an unconscious person any liquids.

To Revive Victim

Probably the quickest way to revive an unconscious person is with aromatic spirits of ammonia soaked in a handkerchief and held under the victim's nose. Smelling salts can be used instead. As soon as the victim revives, you can give him a teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in half a glass of water. This acts as a stimulant.

Other good stimulants are coffee and tea. Make sure that whichever you give the victim is as hot as can be drunk with comfort. Give him only a spoonful at a time until he has had a cupful.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. W. N.: Both my five-year-old child and I have excessive perspiration on the palms of the hands. What is the cause, and is there a cure for it?

Answer: All normal individuals do not excrete the same amount of perspiration. Some perspire a great deal, others tend to perspire but little. It would be well to dab the affected parts with a 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride every other day, for a short period of time. Should the skin become irritated, a bland ointment, such as cold cream, may be applied to the affected skin.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dick entertained the Harper Bible Class of the First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Nearly 150 persons attended the first concert program of the Circleville Community Band, held in Memorial Hall.

Past presidents of Monday Club, totaling 21 persons, were guests at a social session of the club.

TEN YEARS AGO

National rationing board officials have placed all meat except mutton on the ration list.

More than four tons of used clothing were collected in the city for an overseas program.

All Circleville and Pickaway County residents were urged by R. L. Brehmer, chairman of the county Victory Garden Council, to plant an all-season Victory garden.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Joseph's Department Store is featuring a new four-piece sport suit for business men. The suit includes coat, vest, trousers and knickers.

Nearly 500 visitors were guests of the Lutheran Women's Missionary Society of Circleville for a conference of the Columbus district of the organization.

The Business and Professional Club members have pledged the club to furnish the office at the new Berger Memorial hospital.

Tell Her It's MURDER

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
THE SCOTSMAN got Mrs. Casserly a glass of water and questioned her softly. The confession had done her good. She was quiet. The details of what she had seen through the window and from the terrace on that distant May night were hazy. She didn't recognize the man; he was a dark shape carrying the bundle with dangling feet. But about the sherry she had taken in the pantry before she went to bed she was very positive. Three glasses were all. "I know, I'm positive. I wanted to be all right for the next day. That's why I didn't see how it got the way it did. That's why I thought it was only a dream."

McKee saw. Reconstruction in darkness, an inner darkness. Someone had gone into Roger Pelham's room, closed the door to Mrs. Casserly's room and then—what? Killed the child there, or outside the house as he stepped innocently through the door, perhaps in response to a whispered summons? The blow would have come fast and accurately. After that the bundle carried to the driveway, put down and the car sent over the small, lifeless body. It had been done countless times before, the simulation of vehicular homicide.

A red haze wasn't the atmosphere to work in. The Scotsman pulled himself clear. Mrs. Casserly was removed. McKee's mind reached in and under and around and about. The sherry. In its accustomed place on the pantry shelf, a glass passing through, a quick glance if she felt tired. Two ends of a dark rainbow, Andrus knocked out at the inn so that his car might be used, Mrs. Casserly in the house?

"Well, inspector?" McKee nodded. "Yes. I think so. I think Roger Pelham's death was murder, that he was deliberately killed."

"Why...? Why?" Redgate opened and closed clenched hands. McKee said, "Suppose you tell me why, doctor. You're in Mrs. Pelham's confidence. You know more about her than anyone else."

Redgate's face became expressionless. "I can't talk about Mrs. Pelham's private affairs, inspector. She's my patient."

"Then I will have to go to her."

"That is up to you."

"Mrs. Pelham—"

McKee paused. He didn't like what he had to do. Regina Pelham faced him in the little book-lined room at the back of the house. She had come willingly, without any trace of fear. "Mrs. Casserly has talked."

"Lulu—talked?"

There was nothing but wonder on her broad brow, in her eyes.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — Whether to appoint respected Democrats or inexperienced and unqualified Republicans to federal jobs throughout the country has become a major patronage problem with the Eisenhower Administration. The solution may make or break the GOP's attempt to capitalize on Ike's undoubted popularity in every section of the country.

Here is a sample case that is now before Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, and it is typical of similar decisions awaiting action by other cabinet and federal agency heads—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, and Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture.

Almost every one of Ike's top appointees is faced with the choice of retaining a good Democrat or supplanting him (or her) with a Republican party worker.

EFFICIENT — In a small southern town not too far from Washington, the job of postmaster was held for more than 20 years under Democratic rule by a highly respected member of that party and the community. As so often happens, he appointed his daughter to serve as his assistant, and she turned out to be an exceptionally likable and efficient public servant.

The father has died since the Republicans came to power, and the daughter carried on. If a vote were taken in the community, she would be chosen almost unanimously for the post. Republicans and Democrats would support her, according to Summerfield's latest survey.

But a Republican precinct worker wants the position, and he has the backing of the regular organization, such as it is. The challenger has no special qualifications for the job. Nor has he ever been able to carry his district for a Republican candidate for local or national office. He is simply a time-serving politician.

DEMANDS — Summerfield realizes that he will make more votes and friends for Ike and the Republican party, if he gives this plum to the Democratic lady. He has been so informed by disinterested citizens of the community. But he will be lambasted by politicians in Virginia and elsewhere, and accused of "running out on the gang," if he turns down the party precinct worker.

President Eisenhower would undoubtedly approve the Democrat's reappointment, if the controversy were brought to his personal attention. He believes that he can hold the South, or at least three or four states, by nonpartisan recognition of the better elements in Dixie, whether they be Republicans or Democrats.

By Ray Tucker

RESULT — Unfortunately, despite its intrinsic, political importance, such a matter as the disposition of a $4,000 job will not reach the White House desk. It will be handled at the departmental and political level. The Republican will probably get the appointment, and the community will continue to vote Democratic.

Multiply this incident by the thousands, and assume that all will be handled in the same way, and it becomes evident why the GOP might not be able to capitalize on Ike's personal popularity.

CHAMPION — Rep. T. James Tumulty of Jersey City has become Capitol Hill's most massive champion (he weighs 360 pounds) of the feminine sex. He thinks it an insult to the ladies that seasonal hurricanes should be given such names as Carol, Edna and Hazel. He demands that the storms be masculinized.

NEW CAPITOL PROPOSED
CONSTRUCTION of a new Capitol building in Washington to replace the present structure, which was outgrown decades ago, has been proposed by Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. Senator Bridges envisions a building many times the size of the present capitol, which would be converted into a national shrine. He proposes that a site nearby be acquired.

Anticipating opposition to his plan on the ground that the cost would be prohibitive, the Senator points to the $65 million United Nations building in New York City, financed by the United States government, interest free, on a 30-year basis.

The present capitol building, much of which dates from the early 1800s, has been added to and remodeled several times, but Washington officialdom has grown much more rapidly than has the place of business. The result is, most of the bureaus and offices are scattered all over the city, adding to operational inefficiency.

It is too early to predict the reaction to the Senator's proposal. To date there has been little comment, possibly indicating the subject is already dead. Should the proposal be considered and passed, it would undoubtedly be decades before fruition of the dream could be realized.

Senator Bridges is correct in his premise that bringing government offices back under one roof would promote economy, but whether his proposition is practical from the standpoint of initial cost, or whether the idea is feasible from a military of historical viewpoint, remains to be determined.

TO CUT RED TAPE
LATEST HOOVER Commission report, on federal legal services and procedures, seeks to blaze a fresh trail through Washington's tangled jungle of administrative law. Predominant among the 52 recommendations made to Congress are those which would take judicial functions away from regulatory agencies and place them in a new omnibus federal court.

The agencies now make their own regulations, proceed to investigate compliance, prosecute violations and finally sit in judgment on the charges.

The Hoover Commission contends that justice might be more equitably and effectively served in an all-inclusive administrative court. Such a court would have three sections, one devoted to tax matters now handled by a separate tax court, another to labor disputes now under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board and the third to trade regulation cases.

This latter section would replace the judicial efforts of such agencies as the Federal Trade Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission and Federal Power Commission.

Standardization of a common court should cut costs. The proposal is an intriguing one. If Congress does not agree that this is one of the answers to the question of what to do about bureaucratic red tape, perhaps it can develop a substitute.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

A person is called a reactionary who moves within the traditions of American life and history. The definition is my own but the facts behind it are demonstrable. I take the following from a statement made by Louis Hollander, president of the New York State C.I.O., who said:

"I believe we can force the reactionaries of both old parties to form their own third party. Then labor can sit down and rebuild one of the two remaining parties, supporting the liberals who stay on."

Hollander happened to say this because someone else, at the particular meeting he was addressing, had suggested that labor form its own third party which would seem to be the logical and honest way of going about it if anyone desired a third party.

Under the tutelage of the A. D. A., however, some labor leaders, Socialists, ancient New Dealers and forensic Republicans have concluded that the best way to walk off with another man's possessions is to go into his home and take over. Why bother to form a third party when it is possible by infiltration to steal both the Republican and Democratic Parties?

The question then arises as to whether it can be done. In New York State, the A.D.A. has more or less been pushed out of the Democratic Party. Neither Governor Averell Harriman nor Carmine DeSapio, who runs Democratic politics, will have anything to do with this amalgam of people on the Left.

On the other hand, the Republican Party in this great state is not so resistant to the A.D.A. because out of power is very unpleasant after so long a period in office and maybe with a little assistance the Republicans can get somewhere.

Besides, the only Republican elected last year, the Attorney-General, Jacob Javits, is on the untraditional side and nobody will call him a reactionary, no matter what else he might call him. In fact, if Hollander's friends manage to infiltrate and capture the Republican Party in New York, it would not be necessary for Javits to leave it, no matter what unseemly company he would be forced to keep.

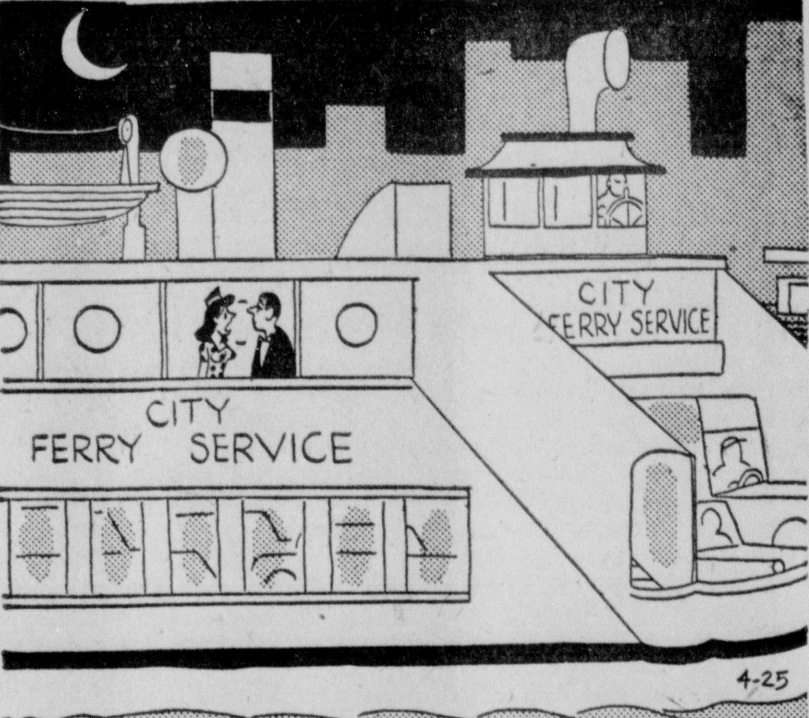

Actually none of this is likely to happen on a national scale in the near future but it does indicate a manner of mind. The A. D. A. has sought to be a balance of power among the Democrats and has only failed because of a Southern repugnance for Socialists which may be overcome, in due course, as the industrialization of the South proceeds.

Among the Republicans, these days, the only fixed principle is that President Eisenhower is a great popular man who cannot be defeated in 1956. Apart from that, the Party in power, as it were, views life and events pragmatically, hoping that more credits will be gained than minuses and that in due course everything will work out well enough, although in these muddled times no one can look forward to perfection. Republicans generally accept it as an inviolable truth that Eisenhower cannot be defeated in 1956 no matter who runs against him and that no other Republican can be elected.

The theft of a political party by infiltration, two of them, as Hollander advocates, is only possible because of the debasement of public morals. In Hollander's circles, it would be called "khutzpa," which may be defined as aggressive, devil-may-care impudence and sometimes even imprudence. And it is even possible that to one who can be guilty of "khutzpa" go the spoils because other men, less forward, shun the battle and give the field.

Knowledge of First Aid Often Prevents Tragedy

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT won't be long before you'll be out on the streets and highways again for those Summer vacations or Sunday afternoon drives. Sometime before the year is over, you'll probably come upon a serious automobile accident. Unfortunately, some of you might be involved in one.

Knowing First Aid

Now whether you're involved in a wreck or merely a witness, you should know what to do to aid the injured. Maybe you can save a life.

Don't move him unless it is necessary to get him out of danger. Let him lie flat on his back, if possible. Keep him warm. Even a few newspapers will serve as a cover if nothing better is handy.

If he begins to vomit, turn his head sideways so nothing will be drawn into his windpipe.

Signs of Shock

Even if he isn't seriously injured, an auto accident victim often suffers shock. You'll easily recognize shock symptoms. His skin will feel cold and clammy, he'll be listless, his senses will respond slowly, and he'll gasp for breath. His pulse will be weak and rapid. He might be unconscious, too.

When a person suffers shock, it means his brain and heart are not getting enough blood. To encourage the flow of blood to his head, place him so his head is slightly lower than the rest of his body. Don't try to get the patient to sit up. And never give an unconscious person any liquids.

To Revive Victim

Probably the quickest way to revive an unconscious person is with aromatic spirits of ammonia soaked in a handkerchief and held under the victim's nose. Smelling salts can be used instead. As soon as the victim revives, you can give him a teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in half a glass of water. This acts as a stimulant.

Other good stimulants are coffee and tea. Make sure that whichever you give the victim is as hot as can be drunk with comfort. Give him only a spoonful at a time until he has had a cupful.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. W. N.: Both my five-year-old child and I have excessive perspiration on the palms of the hands. What is the cause, and is there a cure for it?

A.: All normal individuals do not excrete the same amount of perspiration. Some perspire a great deal, others tend to perspire but little. It would be well to dab the affected parts with a 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride every other day, for a short period of time. Should the skin become irritated, a bland ointment, such as cold cream, may be applied to the affected skin.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

THE SCOTSMAN got Mrs. Casserly a glass of water and questioned her softly. The confession had done her good. She was quiet. The details of what she had seen through the window and from the terrace on that distant May night were hazy. She didn't recognize the man; he was a dark shape carrying the bundle with dangling feet. But about the sherry she had taken in the pantry before she went to bed she was very positive. Three glasses were all. "I know. I'm positive. I wanted to be all right for the next day. That's why I didn't see how it got me the way it did. That's why I thought it was only a dream."

McKee saw. Reconstruction in darkness, an inner darkness. Someone had gone into Roger Pelham's room, closed the door to Mrs. Casserly's room and then—what? Killed the child there, or outside the house as he stepped innocently through the door, perhaps in response to a whispered summons? The blow would have come fast and accurately. After that the bundle carried to the driveway, put down and the car sent over the small, lifeless body . . . It had been done countless times before, the simulation of vehicular homicide.

A red haze wasn't the atmosphere to work in. The Scotsman pulled himself clear. Mrs. Casserly was removed. McKee's mind reached in and under and around and about. The sherry. In its accustomed place on the pantry shelf, the nurse passing through, a quick glass if she felt tired. Two ends of a dark rainbow, Andrus knocked out at the inn so that his car might be used, Mrs. Casserly in the house?

"Well, inspector?"

McKee nodded. "Yes. I think so. I think Roger Pelham's death was murder, that he was deliberately killed."

"Why . . . ? Why?" Redgate opened and closed clenched hands.

McKee said, "Suppose you tell me why, doctor. You're in Mrs. Pelham's confidence. You know more about her than anyone else."

Redgate's face became expressionless. "I can't talk about Mrs. Pelham's private affairs, inspector. She's my patient."

"Then I will have to go to her."

"That is up to you."

McKee paused. He didn't like what he had to do. Regina Pelham faced him in the little book-lined room at the back of the house. She had come willingly, without any trace of fear. "Mrs. Casserly has talked."

"Lulu—talked?"

There was nothing but wonder on her broad brow, in her eyes.

They descended the cellar stairs. Three doors down there to gain entrance by—the lock on the laundry door was broken, an old break. It was close to this door, near an ancient washing machine, that Todhunter found the button, apparently torn forcibly from cloth by a projecting arm of the discarded washer.

It was a big smoked mother-of-pearl button more than an inch and a half in diameter, could have come off an overcoat. It had come off an overcoat, a camel's hair coat. There was a fleck of camel's hair in the thread with which the button had been sewn.

"Trout's!" Todhunter murmured in his whispering voice.

The Scotsman nodded. "Yes." Not quite certain before he was completely convinced.

The trip to Majorca was cancelled. Regina Pelham was prostrated. Her stepsister was a young tigress watching over her. Substituting for Redgate, Dr. Parr refused to let Regina be questioned.

Horton was gloomy over the phone. "It looks as though Trout's slipped through the net, inspector."

The Scotsman agreed.

A check given to Trout bobbed up on Monday at the Hanscomb Trust, where Trout had had a small account for years which never ran more than $100 and was often as low as $10. It was a check for $5,000 drawn on the Coventry bank and signed by Regina Pelham.

Todhunter said, "That was what she gave him when she went over to the inn Thursday night—besides the $110 in cash. He was blackmailing her, inspector."

"Yes. A form of blackmail."

"It would be nice to know what he had on her," Todhunter said.

McKee agreed. Whatever Regina Pelham was so desperately concealing was concerned with the $900,000 and that in turn with something that had taken place during the year and a half following her marriage, while she had been in the west. Her life since her return was an open book.

All efforts to trace the source of the money were so far abortive. Leary, the bank contact, said, "It won't do you any good to push it, McKee. It's too long ago." Regina Pelham's cash and securities had been placed with the Coventry Trust shortly after she had left her husband, and came home from the west. McKee said, "See if you can find out if there have been any withdrawals and if so, how much."

McKee decided to try to find out from Regina if she had made a will and what its provisions were.

He did try. He didn't succeed. Entering the sick room over Dr. Parr's protests, he was met with white exhaustion and apparent sleep. She would not speak. (To Be Continued)

MAKE CONTENTED CATS MORE SO

Drs. John R. McCoy (left) and James B. Allison weigh out next meal for one of their younger charges.

By JERRY KLEIN

Central Press Correspondent
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Two scientists at Rutgers university have the "ticklish" research job of seeing that a group of cats are not only well-fed, but made happy by daily doses of petting and purring.

Drs. James B. Allison and John R. McCoy are studying the basic nutritional requirements of cats. But they've found that to eat her meals regularly, a cat must have regularly-administered portions of attention and loving. And after all, if kitty doesn't polish off her plate, how can you study the effect of her diet?

So the two members of the university's biological research bureau are studying cat psychology while training them to like a semi-synthetic diet based on what is known about feline food requirements. They know which of their "guinea pigs" gets hungriest when her stomach is tickled and which is most satisfied when her right ear is stroked.

ACCORDING to Dr. Allison, the research bureau director, the extra effort in petting and fondling the cats is well worthwhile. From the results of the study, Rutgers laboratories hope to develop basic formulas on which veterinarians and nutritionists may build better diets for tabby.

Aside from the value of the cat nutrition studies to the animals themselves, their owners and the pet food industry, the knowledge gained makes a substantial contribution to man's information on the all-important life process of digestion.

The research job was given to Rutgers because of the bureau's experience in the problem of protein metabolism, the basic process by which our bodies transform protein foods into living tissues. The cat study is financed by a grant from the Mark L. Morris Animal Memorial foundation of Topeka, Kan. Organized by Dr. and Mrs. Mark L. Morris, the foundation is promoting studies of the relation between nutrition and the control of animal diseases.

The scientists say that America's 20 million cats kept as pets in non-farm homes consume many tons of commercially-prepared foods every day. Horse meat—always a major ingredient of pet foods—is growing steadily more scarce as the horse population diminishes.

Therefore, new sources must be found for the protein which is a basic food need for cats and other animals. However, before manufacturers develop new food formulas, they need data on the exact nutritional requirements of our pets.

CATS ARE being welcomed more and more by city families, but living in an apartment ends their traditional nocturnal prowling. City dwelling also ends cats' ability to hunt down live food to supplement their diet according to instinctive nutritional needs. So prepared foods must be so well made that they will answer all these needs.

Drs. Allison and McCoy say that their work with cats has some large, premium-sized value, too. The results will help guide the feeding of large felines as well as small. And better diets for lions, tigers, panthers and other zoo inhabitants should certainly result in stronger, longer-lived animals.

Being an old admirer of felis domestica, Dr. Allison says he doesn't mind one bit catering to feline psychology. He says that 10 minutes of play and affection for a capricious kitten are a bargain price to pay for knowledge that will help science understand better how both cats—and men—live and grow.

WASHINGTON (AP)—People with a desire to change things or let them alone—in this case the United States Constitution and the United Nations Charter—have plenty of chance in 1953 to let off steam.

In the end, probably neither document will be changed.

Once more Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) urges the Constitution be amended to limit a President's treaty-making power. Under the Constitution as it stands the Senate can block any treaty made by a president.

Nevertheless Bricker and his followers argue that somehow, someday, a treaty which gets by the Senate will do grave damage by signing away American rights, particularly states' rights.

Many Senate committee hearings on Bricker's proposal have been held in the past. Last year the Senate was tied in knots for weeks with debate on an amendment. Bricker has a lot of support.

He also has a lot of opposition, particularly from President Eisenhower. Last year Bricker's rigid ideas were melted down into a mild substitute amendment offered by Sen. George (D-Ga.).

In the Senate vote even this was defeated but by a narrow squeak. The vote was 60-31, one vote less than needed to approve it. Any constitutional amendment requires a two-thirds vote of Senate and House plus approval by three-fourths of the states. So even if it had squeezed through the Senate it might have been defeated elsewhere.

Bricker does not give up easily. He's back again, demanding another vote this year. A Senate subcommittee begins hearings on his proposal this week. But Bricker's chances look poorer this year than last.

In the fall of 1953 the United Nations will decide whether to hold a conference on changing its charter which by then will be 10 years old.

This government favors such a conference. But, if it is held, any one of these five countries—The United States, Russia, Britain, France, Nationalist China—could kill with a veto any or all changes it didn't like.

Since the United States and Russia are so far apart in their thinking on how the U.N. should be

Nevertheless the State Department and the Senate, looking forward to the possibility of a conference, have been studying ideas and proposals for charter revisions.

Falling Hair Can Be Stopped

The new book published by Lanole Products, Inc., titled "SCALP HEALTH AND HYGIENE," reveals a startling new concept in the scalp structure and hair growth. It takes you behind the scene of ten years of research into the causes of scalp itch, dandruff and falling hair. "We must understand the causes of scalp disorders," declares A. P. Abbey, noted trichologist, "if we hope to prevent the tragedy of baldness. The scalp is an organ, not a lawn. There is no hair seed; no scalp fertilizer."

This book teaches a new method in scalp hygiene, how to prevent scalp failure and baldness. It debunks all nonsense about guarantees, growing new hair in 30 days and other misleading advertising. Learn the truth about hair oils, water, massaging and brushing.

MAKE CONTENTED CATS MORE SO

Drs. John R. McCoy (left) and James B. Allison weigh out next meal for one of their younger charges.

By JERRY KLEIN
Central Press Correspondent
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Two scientists at Rutgers university have the "ticklish" research job of seeing that a group of cats are not only well-fed, but made happy by daily doses of petting and purring.

Drs. James B. Allison and John R. McCoy are studying the basic nutritional requirements of cats. But they've found that to eat her meals regularly, a cat must have regularly-administered portions of attention and love. And after all, if kitty doesn't polish off her plate, how can you study the effect of her diet?

So the two members of the university's biological research bureau are studying cat psychology while training them to like a semi-synthetic diet based on what is known about feline food requirements. They know which of their "guinea pigs" gets hungriest when her stomach is tickled and which is most satisfied when her right ear is stroked.

ACCORDING to Dr. Allison, the research bureau director, the extra effort in petting and fondling the cats is well worthwhile. From the results of the study, Rutgers laboratories hope to develop basic formulas on which veterinarians and nutritionists may build better diets for tabby.

Aside from the value of the cat nutrition studies to the animals themselves, their owners and the pet food industry, the knowledge gained makes a substantial contribution to man's information on the all-important life process of digestion.

The research job was given to Rutgers because of the bureau's experience in the problem of protein metabolism, the basic process by which our bodies transform protein foods into living tissues.

The cat study is financed by a grant from the Mark L. Morris Animal Memorial foundation of Topeka, Kan. Organized by Dr. and Mrs. Mark L. Morris, the foundation is promoting studies of the relation between nutrition and the control of animal diseases.

The scientists say that America's 20 million cats kept as pets in non-farm homes consume many tons of commercially-prepared foods every day. Horse meat—always a major ingredient of pet foods—is growing steadily more scarce as the horse population diminishes.

Therefore, new sources must be found for the protein which is a basic food need for cats and other animals. However, before manufacturers develop new food formulas, they need data on the exact nutritional requirements of our pets.

CATS ARE being welcomed more and more by city families, but living in an apartment ends their traditional nocturnal prowling. City dwelling also ends cats' ability to hunt down live food to supplement their diet according to instinctive nutritional needs. So prepared foods must be so well made that they will answer all these needs.

Drs. Allison and McCoy say that their work with cats has some large, premium-sized value, too. The results will help guide the feeding of large felines as well as small. And better diets for lions, tigers, panthers and other zoo inhabitants should certainly result in stronger, longer-lived animals.

Being an old admirer of feline domestica, Dr. Allison says he doesn't mind one bit catering to feline psychology. He says that 10 minutes of play and affection for a capricious kitten are a bargain price to pay for knowledge that will help science understand better how both cats—and men—live and grow.

WASHINGTON (AP)—People with a desire to change things or let them alone—in this case the United States Constitution and the United Nations Charter—have plenty of chance in 1955 to let off steam.

In the end, probably neither document will be changed.

Once more Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) urges the Constitution be amended to limit a President's treaty-making power. Under the Constitution as it stands the Senate can block any treaty made by a president.

Nevertheless Bricker and his followers argue that somehow, someday, a treaty which gets by the Senate will do grave damage by signing away American rights, particularly states' rights.

Many Senate committee hearings on Bricker's proposal have been held in the past. Last year the Senate was tied in knots for weeks with debate on an amendment.

Bricker has a lot of support.

He also has a lot of opposition, particularly from President Eisenhower. Last year Bricker's rigid ideas were melted down into a mild substitute amendment offered by Sen. George (D-Ga.).

In the Senate vote even this was defeated but by a narrow squeak. The vote was 60-31, one vote less than needed to approve it. Any constitutional amendment requires a two-thirds vote of Senate and House plus approval by three-fourths of the states. So even if it had squeezed through the Senate it might have been defeated elsewhere.

Bricker does not give up easily. He's back again, demanding another vote this year. A Senate committee begins hearings on his proposal this week. But Bricker's chances look poorer this year than last.

In the fall of 1955 the United Nations will decide whether to hold a conference on changing its charter which by then will be 10 years old.

This government favors such a conference. But, if it is held, any one of these five countries—The United States, Russia, Britain, France, Nationalist China—could kill with a veto any or all changes it didn't like.

Since the United States and Russia are so far apart in their thinking on how the U.N. should be

New Margin No Surprise To Brokers

Wall Street Leaders Debate Over-All Effect Of New Federal Order

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock buying on the cuff has continued to rise. So Wall Street wasn't surprised when the Federal Reserve Board gave another warning against speculation. It raised margins, effective today, to 70 per cent, thus making traders put up more cash when they buy stocks.

But there is considerable debate over how much effect—beyond the temporary and physiological one—that the raising or lowering of margins has upon the trend of stock prices or even upon the volume of speculative trading.

In January of 1946, when stocks were rising, the board put trading on an all-cash basis by raising margins to 100 per cent. But stock prices continued to rise for several months.

On the other hand, this January, when the board was getting nervous about the signs of speculation on stocks, it raised the margin to 60 per cent from 50 per cent. There was a break in stock prices. But shortly the bull market resumed.

The new margin rule means that a broker's customer has to put up $70 in cash to buy a $100 share. The broker can carry him for the remaining $30. And frequently, the broker borrows from a bank to carry such stock.

The amount of money New York banks have lent brokers and dealers, presumably to carry customers' margin trading, is now 761 million dollars higher than at this time last year. The total is now more than 14 billion dollars, the highest since the Federal Reserve began collecting this data in 1944.

Concern over this evidence of speculation probably caused the board to raise margins again, brokers say. In a market as nervous as this one has been recently the psychological effect might be strong, they say. But some question its long-term effect. They note that margin changes frequently haven't halted advancing prices or stopped falling ones.

The Federal Reserve has the power to control credit in the stock market under the Security and Exchange Act of 1934.

That is only one phase of its concern over credit, however. The Federal Reserve is charged by law with policing credit in general. That is, its object is to help make ample credit available to business and agriculture when and where needed, but at the same time to keep credit from becoming over abundant, since that would be the breeding ground for more inflation.

It can curb credit in the stock

The Circleville Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans gained national recognition within the ranks of disabled veterans in March by surpassing its membership enrollment of last year with a total of 49 members as of April 1.

This achievement brought a special message to local Chapter officials from Judge Alfred L. English, national commander of the DAV. The DAV nationally seeks to reach a goal of 210,000 members by next July and has reached a new national record for the 14th consecutive year.

market by manipulating the margin rate. But if there is "too much money" around looking for profitable employment, it will find other avenues—go into mortgages, for instance.

Some argue that stock trading should be put on an all-cash basis. But Federal Reserve Board members have said they do not share this view.

A reasonable and controlled amount of credit in the market, they hold, is useful in maintaining an orderly market. Health of the economy requires that there be an orderly market in which the man who wants to sell as share of stock can, and the man who wants to buy it can.

Stock represents not only a share in American business firms, but also stands for the capital which corporations must raise to operate. Many economists feel that the sale of common stock is the preferable way for corporations to expand, rather than rising long term capital by borrowing. Rising stock prices encourage financing through common stocks.

But too much speculation can be dangerous, too. And it is to nip any such trend that the Federal Reserve Board doubtless took its second cautionary move.

Lausche Lauds Spunk Showed By Newsboy

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has commended a Toledo newsboy for his display of business experience gained on his paper route.

But the governor said he wasn't sure whether 12-year-old James Sampson had a claim against the state for loss of part of his route because a highway project cost him 17 customers.

James wrote the governor that he paid 45 cents each for the 17 customers and felt that the state should reimburse him to the tune of $7.65 for their loss.

"You had to give my customers money to move," James wrote,

"so why don't you see if the state will pay me for the money I have lost from the new road."

The newsboy did not identify the road.

Lausche replied that others suffered losses because of highway work but that he was particularly sympathetic to the newsboy's problem. The governor said he had referred the matter to State Highway Director S. O. Linzell for study.

If political parties were membership organizations in the United States, as they are in Great Britain, capture of the Party by infiltration would not be so likely and probably impossible. In Great Britain, it is not within reason to conceive of a group of men banding together to capture both the Conservative and Labour Parties and offering Sir Anthony Eden and Clement Attlee the choice of organizing a third party. If nothing else, public morals would be outraged by such a thought.

Yet in the United States not only is the A.D.A. seeking to do exactly that but Mr. Hollander boasts of it and offers it as a program. And the reason that anyone dares do it is that both parties have become mostly vehicles for election, not agencies for the struggle over public principle.

James wrote the governor that he paid 45 cents each for the 17 customers and felt that the state should reimburse him to the tune of $7.65 for their loss.

"You had to give my customers money to move," James wrote.

"so why don't you see if the state will pay me for the money I have lost from the new road."

The newsboy did not identify the road.

Lausche replied that others suffered losses because of highway work but that he was particularly sympathetic to the newsboy's problem. The governor said he had referred the matter to State Highway Director S. O. Linzell for study.

Composer On Tour

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Igor Stravinsky, Russian-born New York composer, toured Venice churches this week to seek inspiration for a new musical composition, "Passion According to St. Mark." The work was commissioned by the Festival of Modern Music.

Sokolsky's These Days

If political parties were membership organizations in the United States, as they are in Great Britain, capture of the Party by infiltration would not be so likely and probably impossible. In Great Britain, it is not within reason to conceive of a group of men banding together to capture both the Conservative and Labour Parties and offering Sir Anthony Eden and Clement Attlee the choice of organizing a third party. If nothing else, public morals would be outraged by such a thought.

Yet in the United States not only is the A.D.A. seeking to do exactly that but Mr. Hollander boasts of it and offers it as a program. And the reason that anyone dares do it is that both parties have become mostly vehicles for election, not agencies for the struggle over public principle.

The Cubans licked the Montreal Royals, 6-4 and 9-6 yesterday.

Early Publicity About Redlegs Fails To Jell

CHICAGO (AP) — In pre-season publicity, the Cincinnati Redlegs promised power but cautioned that the pitching would be below par.

But the hitting has not been up to advance notices. In the last three games, the Reds have hit safely a total of only 12 times. Yesterday the Reds could collect only two hits as the Chicago Cubs' Sam Jones set them down, 2-1.

The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was rained out in the Chicago half of the third inning with the Cubs already ahead, 3-0. The Reds now have lost five games in a row.

"I want to sleep on some of the changes I have in mind," said dissatisfied Manager Birdie Tebbets. "But one thing is sure. I can't continue to go with guys who aren't hitting their weight for me. That's for sure. We're a better club than we've shown to date and I'm confident that the fellows will start proving that very shortly."

Ironically, as the Cincinnati hitting slumped steadily, the pitching has picked up. Art Fowler turned in a good performance while taking his fourth straight setback this season. He gave up only four hits. He struck out four and walked three. The righthander was taken out for a pinchhitter in the seventh and his replacement, Jerry Lane, gave up no hits in two innings.

Trabert Collects 9th Net Trophy

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The amateur tennis troupe scattered today as powerful Tony Trabert hung up his ninth straight trophy with the championship of River Oaks.

Trabert, the man with the big game from Cincinnati, bounced Vic Seixas, the national champion from Philadelphia, for the seventh consecutive time yesterday. He beat him 6-0, 6-1, 6-4.

The last time Tony lost a match was Feb. 1 when he fell before Ken Rosewall in the Australian National Tournament.

Kansas Citians Like Their Team

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The cold statistics showed today that major league baseball is getting a red-hot welcome in Kansas City.

Home attendance for seven days for Kansas City's American League entry was brought to 156,997—an average of 22,428—by the 19,446 cash customers that turned out in chilly, windy weather to see the Athletics beat the Chicago White Sox 5-0 yesterday.

That's more than half the 304,666 total drawn by the same Athletics in 72 games at Philadelphia all last season.

Vet Group Elects

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Warden Ankeny of Lakemore, Summit County, was elected commander of the Ohio Army-Navy Union at its state convention yesterday.

Ohio's Youths Proposing Tougher Laws On Motoring

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The laws governing Ohio motorists would be tougher today if measures passed by the model Legislature which took over the Statehouse last week had been for keeps.

There would be a heavier penalty on a driver leaving the scene of an accident.

Liability insurance would be required.

The minimum age for getting a license would be higher.

Altogether, 26 bills or resolutions pertaining to the operation of motor vehicles were drawn up by the more than 400 teenage legislators taking part in the annual Youth and Government Program of the Ohio Young Men's Christian Assn.

The model Legislature produced 103 bills, and "Governor" Joe Sheridan of Fairborn approved 22 of them. The legislators overrode the governor's veto of a 23rd bill, passing into "law" a measure to establish a state board of education.

One measure pertaining to motoring—killed in committee—would have banned road signs which rhymed.

The youthful legislators tried unsuccessfully to establish daylight savings time throughout the state, to create a state institution for alcoholics, to require installation of cafeterias in all public schools and to prohibit sale of "realistic" toy firearms.

The high school students, representing Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y clubs throughout the state, wound up the final session of the fourth model Legislature yesterday. The real Ohio Legislature was in weekend recess.

THIS MAP shows the proximity of Formosa to the Chinese mainland, where the Reds are engaged in "an intensive buildup" of airpower, according to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Military chiefs have already told Congressional committees that grave dangers lie in the numerous air fields being constructed, from which Formosa could be blanketed by jet craft. A large concentration of modern fighter planes has been noted recently at the Foochow air field.

Early Publicity About Redlegs Fails To Tell

CHICAGO — In pre-season publicity, the Cincinnati Redlegs promised power but cautioned that the pitching would be below par.

But the hitting has not been up to advance notices. In the last three games, the Reds have hit safely a total of only 12 times. Yesterday the Reds could collect only two hits as the Chicago Cubs' Sam Jones set them down, 2-1.

The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was rained out in the Chicago half of the third inning with the Cubs already ahead, 3-0. The Reds now have lost five games in a row.

"I want to sleep on some of the changes I have in mind," said disaffected Manager Birdie Tebbets. "But one thing is sure. I can't continue to go with guys who aren't hitting their weight for me. That's for sure. We're a better club than we've shown to date and I'm confident that the fellows will start proving that very shortly."

Ironically, as the Cincinnati hitting slumped steadily, the pitching has picked up.

Art Fowler turned in a good performance while taking his fourth straight setback this season. He gave up only four hits. He struck out four and walked three. The righthander was taken out for a pinchhitter in the seventh and his replacement, Jerry Lane, gave up no hits in two innings.

Trabert Collects 9th Net Trophy

HOUSTON, Tex. — The amateur tennis troupe scattered today as powerful Tony Trabert hung up his ninth straight trophy with the championship of River Oaks.

Trabert, the man with the big game from Cincinnati, bounced Vic Seixas, the national champion from Philadelphia, for the seventh consecutive time yesterday. He beat him 6-0, 6-1, 6-4.

The last time Tony lost a match was Feb. 1 when he fell before Ken Rosewell in the Australian National Tournament.

Kansas Citians Like Their Team

KANSAS CITY — The cold statistics showed today that major league baseball is getting a red-hot welcome in Kansas City.

Home attendance for seven days for Kansas City's American League entry was brought to 156,997—an average of 22,428—by the 149,446 cash customers that turned out in chilly, windy weather to see the Athletics beat the Chicago White Sox 5-0 yesterday.

That's more than half the 304,666 total drawn by the same Athletics in 72 games at Philadelphia all last season.

Vet Group Elects

YOUNGSTOWN — Warden Anthony of Lakemore, Summit County, was elected commander of the Ohio Army-Navy Union at its state convention yesterday.

Ohio's Youths Proposing Tougher Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The laws governing Ohio motorists would be tougher today if measures passed by the model Legislature which took over the Statehouse last week had been for keeps.

There would be a heavier penalty on a driver leaving the scene of an accident.

Liability insurance would be required.

The minimum age for getting a license would be higher.

Altogether, 26 bills or resolutions pertaining to the operation of motor vehicles were drawn up by the more than 400 teenage legislators taking part in the annual Youth and Government Program of the Ohio Young Men's Christian Assn.

The model Legislature produced 103 bills, and "Governor" Joe Sher-Idan of Fairborn approved 22 of them.

The legislators overrode the governor's veto of a 23rd bill, passing into "law" a measure to establish a state board of education.

One measure pertaining to motorizing—killed in committee—would have banned road signs which rhymed.

The youthful legislators tried unsuccessfully to establish daylight savings time throughout the state, to create a state institution for alcoholics, to require installation of cafeterias in all public schools and to prohibit sale of "realistic" toy firearms.

The high school students, representing Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y clubs throughout the state, wound up the final session of the fourth model Legislature yesterday. The real Ohio Legislature was in weekend recess.

Winners Repeat In Mansfield Test

MANSFIELD — The three leaders in last year's Mansfield Relays repeated this year.

Cleveland East Tech successfully defended its championship with 37 points as the meet closed Saturday. Mansfield was second with 27 and Lakewood third with 24. Last year it was the same refrain with slightly different scores—East Tech 31, Mansfield 28 and Lakewood 24.

This year the top trio emerged from a record field of 107 teams. Last year, there were 104 schools represented.

Ohio Music Group Names Top Groups

Ohio Clocks Differ

COLUMBUS — Ohio was a divided state today, with daylight saving time separating 58 northeastern communities from the rest of the state by one hour, DST went into effect yesterday, putting the areas affected one hour ahead of the rest of Ohio.

Advancing the interest of health education in the schools and community will be the theme of the Pickaway Community Council meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. in St. Philip's Parish House.

A film on "School Health in Action" will be presented by Helen Massengale, acting chief of the division of public health education. Mrs. Florence Fogle, of Ohio State University, will organize discussion groups and introductory remarks will be made by C. D. Bennett, president of the group.

Where do we go from here? The following persons will participate in the program: Margaret Maxwell, nursing consultant, and Pat McKisic, sanitation consultant, both of the Southeast District of the Ohio Department of Health, in Athens; George Hartman, city schools superintendent; George McDowell, county schools superintendent; Miss Massengale, who is with the health department; Dr. Jasper Hedges, of Circleville; Miss Fogle; and Hart Page, of the Ohio State Medical Assn.

Long 'Forgotten' Words, Deeds Come Back At Election Time

Democrats Set For 3 Tussles At Polls Here

Republicans Can Be At Ease (?) During Circleville Primary

For Circleville Democrats at least, now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party—because a lot of chickens are bound to come home to roost in the form of who-said-or-did-what-to-whom, and where-and-why it was said or done.

A little more than a week hence, early next month, city Democrats will stage three tussles in the municipal primary here. And when public office holders and their challengers have to go to the polls for a decision by the electorate, no matter what part of the country it happens to be, laundry linen is often dragged out and more than one skeleton begins to clatter in the cupboard.

The lowly taxpayer, clutching an important ballot in his or her fist, will usually mark it on the basis of personal feelings—no matter how loud and long the public is reminded about "the good of the community". And John and Jane Voter's feelings are often guided by something that was said or done many moons ago.

More than one candidate is put through a mental sweat when he discovers the average voter has an amazing memory. Things said just because somebody asked him for it!

Later on, he learned what the drive was for, and he in turn revealed that he didn't even live in the neighborhood!

STREET SCENE: ...
A considerate lady stranger halting a home-bound grade school girl at Watt and Court to help the youngster readjust a top-heavy load she was lugging.

NOTES TO Aunt Hilda:
Sorry, we are not in position to say exactly why so many offices in Circleville have all their personnel "out for lunch" at the same time. We agree it very often slows up business. Somehow it appears to be a growing custom—perhaps the first stage of a move to adopt the Mexican noon-time siesta.

WITHOUT clamoring for attention and content to hold its conservative place in the things that come and go, another exhibit by the Circleville Art League has been added to the organization's long list of successful showings.

The league's annual Spring show, held in Pickaway County courthouse recently, drew only a fair number of viewers—some who just happened to be passing by, but mostly the "old reliables" who know the high merit of the group's work and go out of their way to patronize its activities. Yet, in their own way, the league's exhibits during the year are proof of a valued quality in the local scene—something that many cities much larger than Circleville cannot match.

And something that many other communities in this section of the state secretly envy.

The size of the shows held here, and the outstanding quality represented in the works displayed, are of a category far above what a casual visitor would expect to find in a city of this relatively small class.

This, in turn, means that men and women of unusual artistic skills are at work in behalf of Circleville's status as a forward-looking community. And that they have been doing their work so quietly that the group's shows still attract only a small portion of the support they deserve.

This is to be regretted, but it is something that can be adjusted as time goes on and other shows come due. And meanwhile the fact is in itself a tribute to the unselfish people who keep the organization active on its high plane.

Art shows, as we know them, will never draw too many of us who know little or nothing about the finer points of painting and sketching—or at least it has long been evident everywhere that true artists and plain-joe citizens are not always enthused over the same pictures. Different sparks, somehow, agitate each group—and certainly each has arguments in its favor.

But this does not take away from the fact that fine art is an accepted trademark of culture in any community. And thanks to the Circleville Art League and its quietly conducted shows, we are able to convince out-of-town visitors how everything hereabouts is not geared to the level of city hall squabbles, drunken drivers, juvenile problems, and the human struggle for that extra buck.

The league's work is a refreshing note in the rough-and-tumble of the daily scene. And—whether they are able to attend the shows or not—it stands for real people who know what civic spirit really means.

VICIOUS Dig Department: "Well, I'll say one thing. You're a better judge of women than you are of baseball clubs."

YE OLDE Curbstone Philosopher:

Health Officials To Gather At Refuse Clinic

State, regional and district health officials will gather in Chillicothe Tuesday for a one-day study of modern methods in the handling of refuse—a subject of touchy concern to the city of Circleville and other local communities.

Health officials here have urged local clubs and civic organizations to send representatives to the refuse clinic, scheduled to open at 10 a. m. in the Chillicothe Elks Club Grill, 52 W. Second St. Circleville city officials will be especially interested in Chillicothe's sanitary landfill setup, since this city has also weighed the feasibility of the same method here.

Circleville's open dump a short distance west of the city has become a chronic source of complaints, especially during the hot summer months.

The clinic in Chillicothe is being sponsored by the Ohio Department of Health, the Ohio Municipal League, the Ohio Association of Public Health Sanitarians, and the host city.

A series of talks and discussions, with films and slides to illustrate the subject, will be climaxed by a visit to Chillicothe's landfill dumping area.

Fortunately, this works to a considerable extent the other way, too. The voter—king for a day—also remembers many of the little favors, or kind words.

In any event, the coming primary will be a welcome breathing spell (and an educational show, perhaps) for the Circleville Republicans, who have no contest listed. In the immortal words of Wimpy, Popeye's comic strip companion, they can sit back and chuckle: "Let's you and him fight!"

SOLICITORS for the 1955 Cancer Crusade (which by the way continues up to the end of this month) probably found many cases of spontaneous generosity, but one of the series reported from the Southend is as good as any.

WITHOUT clamoring for attention and content to hold its conservative place in the things that come and go, another exhibit by the Circleville Art League has been added to the organization's long list of successful showings.

The league's annual Spring show, held in Pickaway County courthouse recently, drew only a fair number of viewers—some who just happened to be passing by, but mostly the "old reliables" who know the high merit of the group's work and go out of their way to patronize its activities. Yet, in their own way, the league's exhibits during the year are proof of a valued quality in the local scene—something that many cities much larger than Circleville cannot match.

And something that many other communities in this section of the state secretly envy.

The size of the shows held here, and the outstanding quality represented in the works displayed, are of a category far above what a casual visitor would expect to find in a city of this relatively small class.

This, in turn, means that men and women of unusual artistic skills are at work in behalf of Circleville's status as a forward-looking community. And that they have been doing their work so quietly that the group's shows still attract only a small portion of the support they deserve.

This is to be regretted, but it is something that can be adjusted as time goes on and other shows come due. And meanwhile the fact is in itself a tribute to the unselfish people who keep the organization active on its high plane.

Art shows, as we know them, will never draw too many of us who know little or nothing about the finer points of painting and sketching—or at least it has long been evident everywhere that true artists and plain-joe citizens are not always enthused over the same pictures. Different sparks, somehow, agitate each group—and certainly each has arguments in its favor.

But this does not take away from the fact that fine art is an accepted trademark of culture in any community. And thanks to the Circleville Art League and its quietly conducted shows, we are able to convince out-of-town visitors how everything hereabouts is not geared to the level of city hall squabbles, drunken drivers, juvenile problems, and the human struggle for that extra buck.

The league's work is a refreshing note in the rough-and-tumble of the daily scene. And—whether they are able to attend the shows or not—it stands for real people who know what civic spirit really means.

"Well, I'll say one thing. You're a better judge of women than you are of baseball clubs."

YE OLDE Curbstone Philosophers:

Health Officials To Gather At Refuse Clinic

State, regional and district health officials will gather in Chillicothe Tuesday for a one-day study of modern methods in the handling of refuse—a subject of touchy concern to the city of Circleville and other local communities.

Health officials here have urged local clubs and civic organizations to send representatives to the refuse clinic, scheduled to open at 10 a. m. in the Chillicothe Elks Club Grill, 52 W. Second St. Circleville city officials will be especially interested in Chillicothe's sanitary landfill setup, since this city has also weighed the feasibility of the same method here.

Circleville's open dump a short distance west of the city has become a chronic source of complaints, especially during the hot summer months.

The clinic in Chillicothe is being sponsored by the Ohio Department of Health, the Ohio Municipal League, the Ohio Association of Public Health Sanitarians, and the host city.

A series of talks and discussions, with films and slides to illustrate the subject, will be climaxed by a visit to Chillicothe's landfill dumping area.

Fortunately, this works to a considerable extent the other way, too. The voter—king for a day—also remembers many of the little favors, or kind words.

In any event, the coming primary will be a welcome breathing spell (and an educational show, perhaps) for the Circleville Republicans, who have no contest listed. In the immortal words of Wimpy, Popeye's comic strip companion, they can sit back and chuckle: "Let's you and him fight!"
